

One has to become more aware than one ordinarily is. To be a sannyasin means to enter into the phenomenon of the sacred.

For that more awareness is needed, much more, because it is not something mechanical, something routine. It is now every day.

It is moving from the unknown towards the unknowable. It is dropping the known every day, dying to the known and entering into the unknown.

It is an eternal pilgrimage, because every moment is so full of mystery that one has to be very alert, otherwise one will miss.

Very few people know the beauty of the stars... Very few people know the beauty of the mountains.
